Cookie Policy

What is a cookie?

A cookie is a small data file that is placed on your computer by websites that you visit.

The purpose of the cookie is to allow a website to remember your device and how you interacted with the website, which is useful for a number of different purposes.

For example:

- cookies can be used to remember username and password information so that you don't have to re-enter all of your login information every time you visit a site you frequently log in to
- cookies can be used to remember your preferences such as volume settings you have selected while using the website in the past

Our website uses cookies to offer you a better browsing experience.

These are the cookies we use and their purpose:

Session cookie: A session cookie, also known as an in-memory cookie, exists only in temporary memory while the user navigates the website. Web browsers normally delete session cookies when the user closes the browser. This is classed as an unobtrusive cookie and expires after 2 hours of closing the browsing session.

Google Analytics Tracking Cookies: These cookies help us to measure how the user interacts with the website content and how the user navigates between the web pages. This is classed as a first-party anonymous cookie only used for analytical purposes.

What will happen if I refuse to accept cookies?

You can set your web browser to refuse cookies, however some of our website features may not function as a result.

How do I disable cookies in my browser?

1. Open Internet Explorer
2. Select Tools
3. Click Internet Options
4. Under the Privacy tab, locate the Settings section
5. Move the slider up or down to adjust your acceptance level for cookies.

How do you delete your cookies?
